Assistance Dogs International

Assistance Dogs International, Inc. (ADI) is a worldwide coalition of non-profit programs that train and place Assistance Dogs. Founded in 1986 from a group of seven small programs, ADI has become the leading authority in the Assistance Dog industry.

The objectives of Assistance Dogs International Inc. are to:

- Establish and promote standards of excellence in all areas of assistance dog acquisition, training and partnership
- Facilitate communication and learning among member programs
- Educate the public to the benefits of assistance dogs and ADI membership

ADI has established minimum standards and ethics for member programs and for the training, placement and follow-up support services for Assistance Dog Teams. These standards and ethics are the foundation of the ADI Accreditation Standards.

ADI programs meet regularly to share ideas and best practices, attend educational seminars, and to conduct business regarding such things as educating the public about assistance dogs, working to establish consistent access laws and terminology for individuals partnered with assistance dogs, and updating ADI standards, guidelines and ethics for the raising and training of assistance dogs.

ADI currently recognizes three types of assistance dogs: Guide Dogs that assist blind and visually impaired people by avoiding obstacles, stopping at curbs and steps, and negotiating traffic; Hearing Dogs that assist deaf and hard of hearing individuals by alerting them to a variety of household sounds such as a door knock or doorbell, alarm clock, oven buzzer, telephone, baby cry, name call or smoke alarm; and Service Dogs that assist people with disabilities other than vision or hearing impairment. With special training these dogs can help mitigate many different types of disabilities. They can be trained to work with people who use power or manual wheelchairs, have balance issues, need seizure alert or response, need to be alerted to other medical issues like low blood sugar, are on the autism spectrum, or have psychiatric disabilities. These specially trained dogs can help by retrieving objects that are out of their person's reach, opening and closing doors, turning light switches off and on, barking to indicate that help is needed, finding another person and leading the person to the handler, assisting ambulatory persons to walk by providing balance and counterbalance, providing deep pressure, and many other individual tasks as needed by a person with a disability.

Further information about ADI is available on the ADI website:

Assistance Dogs International Accreditation

ADI Accreditation began in 1996. ADI Accreditation Standards have become the benchmarks to measure excellence in the Assistance Dog industry. Assistance Dog users trust their lives and safety to their dogs so everything related to the training of both the dogs and people must meet extraordinary criteria.

Members of ADI have developed the Accreditation Manual and procedures to evaluate the quality of assistance dog programs. Areas evaluated include: safety and cleanliness of the training facility, fair and ethical treatment of clients, proper health care for the dogs, humane training methods for the dogs, criteria for screening suitability of both dogs and clients, criteria for matching dogs and clients, criteria for administration of all program operations and compliance with all legal regulations.

Compliance with these standards helps ensure that people with disabilities who are seeking a partnership with an Assistance Dog receive exceptional service, a comprehensive education about training and utilization of an assistance dog, and a thorough understanding of all aspects of public access with an assistance dog.

The accreditation survey process is a peer-review assessment for member programs to determine if all policies, procedures and organizational practices are in compliance with the established standards. To demonstrate compliance, member programs undergo an accreditation survey by trained ADI Assessors. The accreditation survey includes interviews with program staff, volunteers, applicants, and graduates. Policies, procedures, documents and records are thoroughly reviewed and facilities and equipment are fully inspected.

Following the on-site portion of the accreditation survey, the assessor completes the Accreditation Survey Report and makes a recommendation to the ADI Accreditation Review Committee. Member programs that achieve compliance with the ADI accreditation standards are awarded full five-year accreditation and receive an official accreditation plague. Accreditation must be renewed every five years.

ADI's Accreditation Steering Committee works year round on the continued development of ADI Accreditation. The accreditation standards are continually evaluated to ensure they are up to date with current industry practices and remain focused on continuous improvement of the Assistance Dog industry. ADI supports programs in their efforts to improve and bring innovative practices to all ADI programs. As best practices emerge and bring change, so too will ADI's accreditation standards.

Accreditation Procedures

For detailed information on the entire accreditation process, please review:

- ADI Accreditation Survey Procedures
- ADI Accreditation Process Steps
- * ADI Accreditation Guidance Notes
- Instructions for ADI Accreditation Pre-assessment Paperwork
- Paperwork Summary Chart
- Common Questions & Answers about ADI Accreditation

These documents are available on the ADI website

http://www.assistancedogsinternational.org/members/accreditation/

ADI has also developed minimum standards and ethics which all members and candidate programs agree to abide by when they join ADI. The standards and ethics form the basis for the ADI Accreditation program and are referenced throughout the accreditation manual. All minimum standards and ethics are available for review on the ADI website in the Standards section.

Please note that some accreditation standards in this manual are marked Paperwork in advance. The written materials required for those standards must be submitted to ADI for review by the assessor prior to the on-site accreditation survey visit. Please see the accreditation document: Instructions for ADI Accreditation Pre-assessment Paperwork for further information.

If the program believes a standard or section of the manual does not apply (n/a) to their operations, this must be confirmed with the regional Accreditation Coordinator before the paperwork is submitted.

Once the paperwork has been submitted and approved, the Accreditation Review Committee (ARC) will assign trained ADI Accreditation Assessor(s) to the survey. The assessors and program will agree on dates for the on-site visit to the program. The assessors will provide a survey schedule in advance of the visit.

The survey visit will include Interviews, Observations, and Inspections as noted in the accreditation standards. Upon completion, the assessor may request follow-up information, or will submit the survey report to the ARC within 30 days. The ARC will review the report at the next scheduled meeting. Approvals will be processed accordingly, and denials will move forward to the Accreditation Steering Committee for further discussion and a decision. There is an appeals process available to programs via the ADI Board. The ADI Board will make a final decision.

It is important to also note that updates to the accreditation standards, procedures, and documents may occur in January of each year. The updated accreditation documents are posted on the ADI website and notifications about updates are also included in the minutes of the Accreditation Steering Committee and ADI Board meetings.

Member programs preparing for accreditation or re-accreditation are responsible for checking the accreditation documents to determine if updates have been made.

Section 8. STANDARD FOR CERTIFICATION OF OWNER / PRIVATE TRAINER TRAINED TEAMS

The intent of this standard is to ensure that ADI Accredited Member programs that provide certification for owner / private trainer trained teams have consistent and high standards for team evaluation, training, certification testing and follow-up.

8.1	assistar	ns that provide certification testing for owner trained or private trainer trained nce dog teams must comply with the ADI Minimum Standards and Ethics for Private Trainer Trained Assistance Dog Teams.
		The owner must go through all the program requirements for an assistance dog applicant, which includes the programs application process and team training. The owner must sign all consent and release of liability forms provided by the program.
		The dog must meet all ADI Minimum Standards for dogs and must meet the same program standards as the dogs trained and placed by the program staff.
		The program should have a minimum of a 6 month period working with the owner and their dog. The owner and dog will be observed in a variety of settings and situations during this time. This will also include any training necessary to complete the program and meet the ADI Minimum Standards.
		The program will inform the owner prior to acceptance into the program of all financial commitments/fees required by the program in writing. The program will also inform the owner that at any time throughout the process or after certification testing, the program can decide to discharge the dog because of temperament, health or training issues, also in writing.
		The program will decide when the team is ready to go through the team training process.
		After successfully completing the team training process and the program requirements the team will be given program certification. This certification will include a program identification card and harness or other identification used by the program.
		The team becomes a program team for the working life of the dog. The program will include the team in all requirements and activities in place for teams made up of program trained dogs, including but not limited to follow-up, retesting, and continuity of dog's health care and veterinary requirements.
		The service, hearing, or guide dogs must meet the minimum standards for training each type of assistance dog. A facility dog must meet the minimum standards for facility dogs.
		The assistance dog team must meet all of the standards as laid out in the minimum standards for Assistance Dogs in Public and the dog should be equally well behaved in the home.
		The assistance dog must be trained to perform at least 3 tasks to mitigate the client's disability.

	The client must be provided with enough instruction to be able to meet the ADI Minimum Standards for Assistance Dogs in Public. The client must be able to demonstrate:
	 that their dog can perform at least 3 tasks
	o knowledge of acceptable training techniques
	o an understanding of canine care and health
	 the ability to maintain training, problem solve, and continue to train/ add new skills (as required) with their assistance dog.
_	 knowledge of local access laws and appropriate public behavior
	The assistance dog program must document monthly follow ups with these teams for the first 6 months following placement. Personal contact will be done by qualified staff or program volunteer within 12 months of graduation and annually thereafter.
	Identification of the assistance dog will be accomplished with the laminated ID card with a photo(s) and names of the dog and partner. In public the dog must wear a cape, harness, backpack, or other similar piece of equipment or clothing with a logo that is clear and easy to read and identifiable as an assistance dog.
	The program staff must demonstrate knowledge of the owner's disabilities in _	relation to the services they provide. The program shall make available to staff and volunteers educational material on different disabilities.
	The owner/partner must abide by the ADI Minimum Standards of Assistance Dog Partners.
	Prior to the completion of training and certification testing, the assistance dog must meet the ADI Standards and Ethics Regarding Dogs, be spayed/neutered and have current vaccination certificates as determined by their veterinarian and applicable laws.
